A WOMAN DROWNED ABOVE ROSEBUD

Name Unknown—Leaving a Husband and Five Young Children

A report comes from Rosebud that a woman was drowned in the river some miles above that point several days ago. The name of the unfortunate woman is not known and the only particulars that can be gleaned is that her husband drove into the stream with a wagon and finding the water too deep attempted to turn, when he and his wife and daughter were precipitated into the water. The little girl managed to catch some brush along the shore and got out, and the men reached shore safely, but the mother was carried down stream. It is stated a family of five young children are left to mourn the loss of their mother.

SENIORA SPRING WHEAT THE EARLIEST

Tuesday morning Mr. A. D. Shore brought to this office a very fine sample of Senoria wheat, which was well headed out and he believes it will be ready to cut in from three to four weeks time. It is understood this is the first of this variety of spring wheat sown in this district and is proving to be the earliest yet tried here. Three acres of Senoria were planted this spring on Mr. Shore's farm about a mile east of town as an experiment and naturally he is greatly pleased with the result. There were a few seeds about two and a half acres of Preston spring wheat and thirty acres of Red Eye along side of the Senoria. The Senoria is about two weeks behind the Preston and shows no sign of heading out although the latter was planted later, while the Red Eye is even somewhat later than the Preston. This information should prove valuable to all the farmers here and no doubt the harvesting and yield of the Senoria will be watched with the greatest interest. In the Lethbridge district the Senoria variety has been grown for several years and the best of results obtained. It is stated that one man there has about 80 acres of it in crop this year. It is also said that the experience in the south has been that the Senoria, while not bringing quite so good a price as some other varieties is a much earlier and safer crop. The difference in price is not more than one or two cents.

DOMINION EXHIBITION TRULY WONDERFUL

Mrs. T. W. Castle Passes Away

Died at Gleichen, Alberta, on Sunday July 6th, 1908, Edith Ada, beloved wife of Rev. T. W. Castle, aged 23 years.

The above tells a very sad story to a lonely young man and his many friends in Gleichen and district, and to numerous friends in England.

One year next September The Call recorded the double wedding of Miss Edith Richmond to Rev. T. W. Castle and Miss Ida Dobson to Mr. W. Lee. With this issue we regret to now report the demise of the second person in the double wedding. Mr. Lee having passed away only a few weeks later, Nov. 6th, after a brief illness with typhoid fever.

When Mrs. Castle came here from England she was far from being well and came largely in the hope that this bracing climate would restore her health, and being naturally buoyant and hopeful her husband and friends fondly shared the hope with her, but her health continued weak after work and month after month to become weaker. For sometime her nearest friends knew that she could not remain for long in this world, although her husband's love for his frail wife compelled him to hope until almost the last breath that she would rally and become strong. After much suffering she passed quietly away about four o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The grief of Mr. Castle in his perseverance is indeed great and is beyond words to express. While nursing and caring for his wife he worked hard in the erection of a very neat home, which has just been completed.

The funeral took place on Monday afternoon from the parsonage to St. Andrew's Church, where the Rev. Canon Stocken, assisted by Rev. Stanley J. Stocken, conducted the beautiful English church service. From the church a very large procession formed and followed the remains to the cemetery, where the last sad rites were performed.

The pallbearers were Messrs. S. M. Dickenson, A. D. Shore, R. Notter, E. Griesbach, R. H. Hogg and H. Birch.

The casket was covered with many beautiful floral offerings, among which were noted:

- Wreath—"Dona Vult, with a sorrowing husband's fondest love."
- Wreath—Members of St. Andrew's Congregation.
- Wreath—Women's Auxiliary.
- Cross—Her Friends.
- Wreath—Mr. and Mrs. Gooderham.
- Cross—Miss M. Gooderham.
- Cross—Mr. and Mrs. Griesbach.
- Bouquet—Mrs. F. Vigar.

President Woods, president of the Alberta Stake of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints, arrived from Cardston Tuesday with a number of other church officials. In the evening a service was held when every available seat in the Foresters' hall was filled by the Saints and their friends. The several speakers explained in brief the doctrines of their church and the work the church and Sunday schools were accomplishing in Alberta. The particular object of the visitor was to decide as to the establishment of church, which it is stated will likely be effected. Another service was held Wednesday morning and was also well attended.

Staff-Sgt. McLeod went up to Calgary last week to take charge of the N. W. M. P. staff of that city until the return of the officers from Quebec, which will be about six weeks hence. It might be much shorter to name all those who remained in Gleichen than those who went to Calgary during the past week and others are still going.

The Dominion Exhibition now in progress at Calgary may in a word be characterized as—good. Good in the best and highest sense. Many are inclined to compare it with what they have seen in the big cities of the east, but remembering that this is a new country one and all frankly admit it is "good".

But when it is further remembered that a few short years ago this province was more generally believed to be of little or no value and an undesirable place in which to live—this exhibition becomes not good or excellent—but truly wonderful.

No one will expect The Call to attempt a description of the exhibition. But let us say that our reporter spent a part of two days last week on the grounds and then did not see near all the exhibits or was the time sufficient to see and study any section of it thoroughly. A full week could have been spent there most profitably. To those who have not yet been there we would say don't miss it. It will educate you, broaden you, make you feel better, give you more confidence in your own district and province, and urge you to greater things. It may tire you to see it all, but it is worth while. It is worth the time and the expense, even though you get squeezed on the crowds, your feet cramped on a hard-wood floor and circled-tempered and sleep on the straw-stones. The inspiration you will receive from seeing that others have done well spur you to try greater things for yourself.

One Gleichen farmer who spent several days at the fair came home and after a night's rest decided he had not seen enough and boarding the train went back to see it all over again.

Gleichen and district so far has been well represented at the exhibition, indeed, Friday and Saturday there were so many Gleichen people there that it seemed there could not be a soul left in town to keep house.

"Has the exhibition benefited the other towns and cities as well as Calgary?" is the naturally question one so frequently hears. There can be no doubt that it has and will continue to benefit every part of the province. It is a great advertisement for Alberta. Leaving out the magnificent exhibits altogether the benefit can be noted by boarding the train and listening to the general conversation of the passengers. Between here and Calgary you will be sure to hear men admit the appearance and express the intention of returning to carefully examine this country; and these men will be living advertisements wherever they may go.

The exhibition is well managed and this is admitted by people from all parts of this continent and some from the Old World.

The Dominion Day picnic at the Bow river proved a very enjoyable affair and the children had a very good day's outing. The attendance was not as large as might have been expected, owing largely to the many who had gone to Calgary. The exhibition is also to blame for the non-appearance in this town of the list of prize winners as the gentleman who had charge of it has gone to see the sights and forgot to leave the list behind, which is to be regretted. However, the little folks enjoyed a real good time at the river and will remember it for a long time to come. There is much credit due the teachers of the Sunday and public schools and others for the successful management and the work connected therewith.

P. P. Hamilton arrived Monday from Omaha to look over this far-western district.

Mr. Hastie arrived Tuesday from Maple Creek to look after Mrs. Sergt. Brooks'—his daughter—interests in Gleichen, who owns considerable real estate in town. Her friends will be interested to learn that Mrs. Brooks is now in Montreal and is recovering from her long illness, and that her two children are with their grandfather at Maple Creek. Mr. Hastie has not been in Gleichen since 1904 and is very much pleased to note the many improvements during his absence and believes Gleichen has a great future.

The Yellow Peril

Miss Ada Marent seems to be a warm heart, one of the kind that would make a hobby of it up and take his medicine if he came home with the crowing of the cockle-boring under the delusion that love will eliminate the cosmic evidence of fibrous hilarity. This well known woman delivered a hot lecture in Victoria the other night. Before pounding immorality, intemperance, gambling and the "yellow peril," she made the ladies in the audience off their hats in order to give the wicked men a chance to look into her resolute face. As a rule we do not bank much on a woman who will vibrate the scene in public places. They are either looking for a husband or desire to parade their egotism before a meek and patient assembly of ordinary souls. However, Miss Marentt showed up a little different. Her than many other petticoated oratorical trunks. She is full of vim and oxygen, and fairly makes the atmosphere foam when her word machine is working full time. She shrieked against the yellow peril so strong in Victoria that some of the petrified siles in the hall turned saffron and had to go out for a little Scotch in order to endure the trying ordeal. Ada does not mince matters nor does her remarks in kid gloves. She hammers the sins of the world with bare knuckles, and yells in scornful delight. She says that the greed for gold is the yellow peril in the whole British nation, and blames the white men who hire Chinamen for 11 cents an hour, more than she does the boys with the moon eyes. She thinks we cannot have a white Canada while we have yellow journalism, jingo politicians and red light districts, and states that the great evils in the Dominion are intemperance, immorality and gambling. All these evils can be classed under the head of intemperance, for intemperance in anything, even in religion, tends to demoralize and drive the human race within speaking distance of the bug house. Miss Marentt wants a law to prevent white men from employing Japs and Chinks at wages that will not permit them to live in a decent manner. She evidently never had her washing done in a mining camp or she would have said that many chinks in this province get far too much for the work that they do. The brown and yellow boys are experts with the club when they have a monopoly. They can never expect, in an open labor market, owing to their inferior strength, to get the same wages as white men. In the lighter forms of labor they compete with white females and drive the lazy and low to a cigarette existence beneath the gambling incandescent. Miss Marentt's war against the evils that we have in our midst may do some good, but it is a hard job to reform this sin-cursed universe by snatching at some of the blossoms on the tree of evil. Man is prone to fall in the mud as soon as an angel gets out of sight. Death or satiety are the only two things that will make him be still or good. He is made of mud and has a natural inclination to wallow in it. It might have been different if Adam and Eve had kept out of the fruit-raunching business.—Greenwood Lodge.

AMERICANS UNDERSTAND

The people of the Western States at least understand the attitude of Canadians in Western Canada towards the Fourth of July celebration. It may be misunderstood by Americans in the eastern states as well as Canadians in eastern Canada, but fortunately conditions are different in the west, remarks the Calgary Albertan.

The Spokane Spokesman Review states up conditions in a very wise and gracious editorial. It says:—

"Former American citizens residing in and around Calgary are planning for a big celebration of the Fourth of July, incidentally asking for some Spokane orators to go up and address them. Elsewhere in Alberta and British Columbia there will be celebrations of the day. In Winnipeg the Fourth is to be appropriately observed, and in Toronto recognition is always given to the American anniversary of Independence.

"These various demonstrations in Canada are not confined to those who have crossed into that country from this side of the line. Many Canadians participate in them with friendly enthusiasm and in a spirit of good will that cements the ties between the Dominion and the republic."

"It is pleasing to note that while there is no sentiment in Canada favoring annexation to the United States there is an unmistakable cordiality giving promise of a long era of unbroken friendship.
While the United States has given several thousands of people to Canada their emigration is viewed with less regret when it is remembered that they are important factors in building up amicable relations."

Sick-in-Bed Foolishness

There is much good sense in the following by Bernard MacLadden in the June Physical Culture:

Everyone is at times attacked by an acute illness of some kind. It may be a headache, stomach-ache, constipation, or a hundred other different illnesses that in most cases can be traced to a few very simple causes. But when attacked by a complaint, immediately bring out all the fighting qualities that you possess. Determine that the disease shall not conquer you. Vow that you will master it, that you will not go to bed, that you will not give up, that you will fight the disease regardless of its nature as long as you possess an atom of resistance.

At the first symptom of an acute illness, the average individual immediately "throws up his hands," he "gives up" to the illness. He allows it to master him. He mentally acknowledges that he is sick and incompetent, regardless of his condition previous to this, and the illness becomes the master hereafter.

Under such circumstances, if you are not sick, you are liable to become seriously so. Especially is this statement true if you have adopted the usual methods of cure. You "give up," you go to bed.
The activity to which you are accustomed ceases entirely. The vital organs depend upon these activities for needed stimulus, and when these conditions exist, every organ of the body loses energy, and naturally adds to the seriousness of the sickness.

I would say again, again and again, don't give up to illness. Don't go to bed until you have to be carried there. If you put up this kind of a fight you will hardly know the meaning of an acute illness that is prolonged or serious.
Acute illness only becomes serious when you lie in bed all day, heavily covered, with depleted circulation, partially paralyzed functions, and with confined poisoned air that is the real of closed windows and the fear of draughts to breathe.

Disease rarely secures the mastery unless you give up to it. I not only mean that you should fight mentally against the symptoms of a disease, and that you should resist at the last moment the impulse to acknowledge its power, but I mean that you must at the same time adopt those methods which will in a physiological way help you to retain command of yourself.

The fact that grain loading for the east has been already begun at Port Arthur is a good sign of business revival and a sign which is full of cheer.

What does it mean?

Just this. That the goods must be

It means also that the home mer-city can possibly be, ought to receive the patronage of his neighbors.

The result is mutual satisfaction, as a

EGGENTRIC STAMPS.

Blunders That Bring Joy to the Hearts of Philatelists.

"The fascination of stamp collecting," said a postal official, "lies in the rare 'finds' which are continually made and the curious points which sometimes make a stamp of the face value of a few pence worth hundreds of pounds. For instance, the twopence blue Mauritius stamp which the Prince of Wales bought at a public auction for £1450 was unique in one respect—the proper wording on it, 'Post Paid Maurilius,' had by a strange error been altered to 'Post Office Mauritius.'" "Another stamp which has been priced at several hundred pounds is valuable for the mere misspelling of a single word. It is a British Guiana issue worth just 1 cent, but it is sought after by all collectors because the word 'Palmistone' figures on it instead of 'Palmistone'."

"Again, a one penny Cape of Good Hope stamp changed hands the other day for nearly £200 simply because instead of being red, as are all the others of this issue, its color was blue.
"Some years ago in Western Australia a few stamps were printed with the figure of a swan upside down upon them.
When the mistake was detected the issue was hastily destroyed. Several specimens had escaped, and one of them has been sold for £400."—London

THE SORROWFUL TREE.

Its Flowers Open at Night and Close With the Dawn of Day.

There is a tree in Persia to which the name "the sorrowful tree" is given, perhaps because its blossoms only in the evening. When the first star appears in the heavens the first bud of the sorrowful tree opens, and as the shades of night advance and the stars thickly stud the sky the buds continue gradually opening until the whole tree looks like one immense white flower.
On the approach of dawn, when the brilliance of the stars gradually fades in the light of day, the sorrowful tree closes its flowers, and ere the sun is fully risen not a single blossom is visible. A sheet of flower dust as white as snow covers the ground around the foot of the tree, which seems blighted and withered during the day, while however, it is actively preparing for the next nocturnal festival. The fragrance of the blossoms is like that of the evening primrose.

If the tree is cut down close to the roots a new plant shoots up and attains maturity in an incredibly short time.

In the vicinity of this singular tree there usually grows another which is almost an exact counterpart of the sorrowful tree, but less beautiful, and strange to say, it blooms only in the daytime.

Strong Rooms.

The Bank of England's strong room is one of the largest in the world. The foundation, sixty-six feet below the street level, is a bed of concrete twenty feet thick. Above this is a lake seven feet deep, and above that thick plates of iron specially manufactured to resist both skill and force. Any one attempting an entrance from above would find a similar bed of concrete, a similar lake and similar plates of iron.
The walls are impenetrable, while the doors are one foot thick, weigh four tons each and are made absolutely undrillable.

The Imperial Ottoman bank, Constantinople, had a marvelous steel fort built upon a water bearing rock, and on top of the rock foundation is a four foot bed of concrete. The height is over thirty-six feet, length forty-six feet and width twenty-four. The steel walls are surrounded by masonry and concrete six feet thick throughout while the whole comprises nearly thirty tons of steel.

Circulation of the Blood.

The idea of some sort of movement of the blood in man and the lower animals was possessed by Aristotle and other Greeks and by the physicians of the Alexandrian school as well as by the doctors and surgeons of the middle ages. In fact, even the village barbers knew of such movement. But no one not even the wisest of men, had any conception of a continuous stream returning to its source—a circulation in the true sense of the word—or of the functions of the heart as the motor power of the movement of the blood, until it was demonstrated by Harvey in 1628.

The "Letters of Junius."

The vexed question of the real authorship of the "Letters of Junius" has never been positively settled. Mr. Chasbot's learned work to show that Sir Philip Francis was the author of the famous letters, while a strong production, falls of absolute proof. The attempt was made to prove that Thomas Palme wrote the letters, but that, too, failed to convince. The question is still a mystery, though the balance of the evidence is in favor of Sir Philip Francis.

Dad Gets Sarcastic.

"Physical culture, father, is perfectly lovely. To develop the arms I grasp this rod by one end and move it slowly from right to left."
"Well, well!" exclaimed her father.
"What won't science discover? If that rod had straw at the other end you'd be sweeping."

NOVA SCOTIA BLUENOSES.

No One Seems to Know Just Why They Are So Called.

Those who dwell in the Canadian province of Nova Scotia are called blue-noses. The name has stuck to them since time out of mind, but how they came to get it is a matter of conjecture.
One thing is certain—they don't like it.

Nova Scotians pride themselves on their English ancestry, and some will offer the suggestion that the name is a token that the blue blood shows. When the French were driven out of Acadia the fertile lands they vacated were taken up by English colonists, chiefly from Massachusetts.

The spirit of revolt was strong then in Boston and elsewhere in New England. Those who were loyal to the king and taxes found it a good opportunity to move, and from these loyalists Acadia was largely repopulated.

It may be that the blue blood shows and that the name is a badge of honor, but most Nova Scotians don't believe it, for they feel that it is a term of reproach.

"Why bluenose?" was the question put to one young woman whose home isn't far from Nova Scotia.

"Why, after the bluenose potatoes, of course," she said, "and I think it's mean to name people after potatoes."

Now, it's true that, next to apples, potatoes form the greatest product of the rich Nova Scotian soil. And it's also true that the bluenose is the bright particular star among the varieties of potatoes they raise in Nova Scotia.

But the potatoes were named for the people, not the people for the potatoes.
It's a simple question of chronology.

You explain it carefully to the young woman, and she says, "How silly of me!" but you can see with half an eye that you haven't convinced her.

Here's another guess. Being the third and last, maybe it's the right one.
At any rate, it's the one generally accepted in that part of the American world known as down east.

It is cold in Nova Scotia, mighty cold, for six months out of every twelve, and the Nova Scotian nose, peeking out from the furs and woolen mufflers, first gets red and then turns blue as the icy breath of the north nips it.

But, however it is, the easiest way to put the Nova Scotia nose out of joint is to dub it bluenose.

When Mr. Amasa Howe decided to turn the old Howe mansion on Todd's hill into a summer hotel there were persons who prophesied that he would make a success of it and others who were sure he would not, but at the end of two years it was evident to all that Mr. Howe's enterprise was a financial triumph. "And no wonder, when he charges for everything except air," said one of the dwellers in the village at the foot of the hill.

"What do you mean by that?" asked a visitor at one of the village homes.
"He doesn't charge for water, I hope?"
"Some of it he does," said the resident, nodding. "All that comes from the north pasture spring he does—a cent a glass. I understand the folks can have the artesian well water free, but they all take the other and pay the cent. Charges 'em for riding, boating—half a mile walk included—tenpins and the swimming tank."

"But the cap sheet was the charge he made on the bill of a New Yorker.
I heard tell that the man looked at it and looked at it, and finally he called Amasy, and says he, 'Look here, isn't there some mistake about this?'"

"I guess not," Amasy told him, dry as chips. "Your wife is so shortsighted she can't see up into the air, she tells me, and it's took my clerk or one o' the boys right away from their work night and morning to keep her posted on the wind."

"You've been here a full month. I call one-fifty for the use o' weather vane pretty reasonable myself."

Italian Hat Straw.

Few people know where the straw for making summer hats comes from.
A great part of it is grown in Italy.
To make suitable straw the wheat is sown as thickly as possible in order that the growth of the plant may be impooverished as well as to produce a thin stalk having toward the end from the last knot the lightest and longest straw. The wheat blooms at the beginning of June and is pulled up by the roots by hand when the grain is half developed. If allowed to remain in the ground a longer time the straw would become brittle. About five dozen uprooted branches, the size of the compass of two hands, are firmly tied together into little sheaves and stowed away in barns. Then the straw is again spread out to catch the heavy summer dews and to bleach in the sun.
After additional bleaching the straw is put into small bundles and classified.
Finally it is cut close above the first joint from the top and again tied up in small bundles containing about sixty stalks each.—London Chronicle.

Where She Drew the Line.

Mr. Birrell's anticipation that, owing to the bigness of heaven, it will not be inevitable that we shall knock up against our acquaintances there may have been suggested by one of Dean Ramsay's best Scottish stories.
It should be mentioned that at Hawick, the scene of the anecdote, the people used to wear wooden clogs, which made a clanking noise on the pavement. As an old woman lay dying some friends said to her, "Weel, Jeeny, ye are gae-ing to heeven, an' gin ye should see our folk ye can tell them that we're a' weel."

"Weel," said Jeeny cautiously, "gin I should see them I'll tell them, but you manna expect that I am to gang clank-clanking through heeven looking for 'em, like—London Chronicle."

Town and District News

It is hot.

Great growing weather.

The farmers' smile is growing broader every day.

This is the best weather to watch Gleichen grow.

The Dominion Exhibition has wrought great good for all Alberta.

Weather—Sunny Southern Alberta in all her glory the past week.

Who attended the Board of Trade meeting Tuesday evening.

The Call subscription list continues to grow and old subscribers are renewing.

Thos. Stephenson is back in town, after spending several months in the vicinity of Lethbridge.

Chas. Parks, of Brooks, spent a few days in town last week, renewing acquaintances.

Mrs. Creighton and Mrs. Vigar came in on the Rosebud stage Sunday to see their numerous friends.

Presbyterian church services will be held at Gleichen at 11 a.m. and at the Shamrock school at 2 p.m. on Sunday, July 12.

Do you consider a man is in business to stay when his stationery is embellished with a rubber stamp? It looks cheap and is cheap considering the price of neat printing today.

The fire ladders had a trial run Tuesday evening and did some good hard work extinguishing a bonfire west of W. Stuart & Company's lumber yard and re-charging the engines.

Mrs. Harrison is always remembering The Call in some way and brings all manner of nice things from her garden and farm. Monday she brought in some exceptionally fine lettuce and onions.

The Call man had a talk with a representative of the Alberta Pacific Elevator Co. at Calgary last week and was assured their elevator would be built at Gleichen in time for this season's crop.

Mrs. E. M. Doll and son arrived last week from Washington, D.C., to visit her sister, Mrs. Sheets. After a short visit Mrs. Sheets will accompany them to Banff and other mountain summer resorts en route to California.

The most encouraging crop reports continue to come from the farmers in this district. All are hopeful of bumper crops and the continuous hot weather is just the thing most needed to bring about the desired result. There is now sufficient moisture in the ground to mature the grain even if no more rain fell until after harvest. The ground is so well covered by the grain that evaporation into the air is checked and the grain receives the full benefit of the nourishment from the ground. The area under cultivation is much greater this year than ever before and there is also a large quantity of land being put in readiness for fall sowing.

The Foresters' Dominion Day dance proved a most successful affair in every respect so far as the enjoyment was concerned and a credit to those who were in charge. Financially, however, it was not very successful, owing to various reasons, among them being the warm weather and the fact that many went to Calgary. Those who attended had a good time and the luncheon and music were excellent.

Mrs. A. Renaud and Miss E. Renaud gave this office a pleasant call Tuesday morning and presented us with fine big bunches of lettuce, radish and green onions. These are the kind of bouquet the editor most appreciates—nice, crisp, green goods. And these vegetables are a credit to the district as well as to the growers.

Frank Vigar, very appropriately suggests that the farmers immediately north of Gleichen form a local improvement district, which would enable them to improve the roads and keep them in repair as they may desire with their own tax money. It is worth considering. Think it over.

W. R. McKie, manager of the Canadian Bank Commerce, left for Calgary with his wife on Friday to take in the exhibition and will take a couple of weeks vacation. Mr. C. Gordon of Medicine Hat is filling Mr. McKie's position until his return.

Married—At Gleichen, on Wednesday, July 8th, by President Woods, Miss P. Naylor and Mr. Benjamin Walk.

Everyone should feel like boosting Gleichen now.

It is a strange fact that there are always some smart Alecks who, no matter where they are or where they go, they always try to make it unpleasant for others. If they are on the road you must poke along and take their dust or run horses with them. If you are on the street you must listen to their filthy remarks, if at church or in a place of amusement, then you must put up with the annoyance of their brilliant thoughts delivered in a stage whisper. In society their wit and wane must be endured. We imagine that our readers have met with all this and will say they are about as great nuisances as the Creator ever clothed in flesh and endowed with the spark called life.

It is all important to know that location and soil are right, and that you plant the right commercial varieties suited to your location and soil when you go in for fruit raising.

There is always room for improvement and lessons to learn. While young we do not often admit this, but as year after year we battle with the existing conditions, we realize it to be true.

Well earned, fully enjoyed.

You are growing old when you begin to worry about the wrinkles.

People who borrow trouble pay heavy.

Those who marry for money usually earn it.

Opportunity often knocks, but too often with a hammer.
